

XIX. Awake, sweet love, thou art return'd

The First Book of Songs or Ayres
 Text: Anonymous

John Dowland (1563-1626)
 ed. Daniel Thomson

CANTUS [Soprano]

ALTUS [Alto]

TENOR [Tenor]

BASSUS [Bass]

LUTE

1. A - wake, sweet love, thou art re- turn'd, My heart, which long in
 2. If she es - teem thee now aught worth, She will not grieve my

1. A - wake, sweet love, thou art re- turn'd, My heart, which long in
 2. If she es - teem thee now aught worth, She will not grieve my

1. A - wake, sweet love, thou art re- turn'd, My heart, which long in
 2. If she es - teem thee now aught worth, She will not grieve my

1. A - wake, sweet love, thou art re- turn'd, My heart, which long in
 2. If she es - teem thee now aught worth, She will not grieve my

7

S.

A.

T.

B.

Lute

ab - sence mourn'd, Lives now in per - fect joy.
 love hence - forth, Which so de - spair hath proved.

ab - sence mourn'd, Lives now, lives now in per - fect joy.
 love hence - forth, Which so, which so de - spair hath proved.

ab - sence mourn'd, Lives now in per - fect joy.
 love hence - forth, Which so de - spair hath proved.

ab - sence mourn'd, Lives now in per - fect joy.
 love hence - forth, Which so de - spair hath proved.